

ISSUE IV 2018 $5.00

HOUSE®

DESIGN • ARCHITECTURE • LIFESTYLE

Reader's Paradise
within Modern Marvel
by Joy Lee

FOR THE BIRDS.....

Natural beauty shines through with New Age Interiors

Tucked away in a serene, wooded neighborhood in Roslyn Harbor is a beautiful home whose architecture and windows naturally bring the outside inside. New Age Interiors, Inc. in Syosset was hired by the family to design the living space and complement the natural beauty that drew them to purchase this home.

Even amongst the sea of grays so popular now in the design world, these clients were not afraid of color. The clients embraced it and allowed Melissa Fenigstein to be expressive with her color selections so the decor was carefully curated and rooted in their own taste and sensibilities. The woven fabric with colorful birds was chosen to take center stage on two armless accent chairs that sit across the uniquely beautiful sofa in turquoise velvet accented with antique gold nailheads. Two additional swivel chairs in a soft pink fabric were placed directly in front of the oversized picture window with a parsons style ottoman between them creating the perfect spot to read or just relax and enjoy the view.

Stepping into the family room you can feel nature around you. The oversized burnt orange sectional stretches the length of the room. This dreamy seating area is anchored by a pod style chaise lounge. Chaises such as these are ideal for long, narrow rooms. Tibetan curly lamb and rope embroidered pillows add natural texture.

The fireplace wall was dressed with clean lined contemporary cabinetry and stacked stone. Dressing the ceiling beam in wood brings attention to the drama of the vaulted ceiling with the natural light streaming in through the elevated windows.

And the birds are back! Fenigstein chose a more whimsical bird pattern for the chairs at the gaming table. In today's digital age and phone obsession, more clients than ever are requesting a designated space for the family to get together and disconnect from technology and have some old fashioned fun with games.

Family game nights are sure to be filled with lots of laughs and love in this room. 🏠

PHOTOGRAPHY BY RICK MARDER IMAGERY

