New Age Interiors - rustic,
yet refined

PHOTOGRAPHY BY RIC MARDER

Nestled deep on the Gold Coast of Long Island is an enclave of homes that begs to be unified with nature. Long line ranches, with interesting layouts and floor to ceiling windows, truly allow the elements of nature to come alive, inside.

These homeowners were certain that New Age Interiors would be the perfect match to design their family room, gaming area and lower level of the home with a modern yet rustic feel. The family has a special, hand knotted rug they wanted to showcase in this family room. Melissa Feinstein of New Age Interiors found the deep reds, blues and creams in this rug to be the inspiration for the decor and color scheme creating a space that is family-friendly for the little ones, sophisticated for the adults while emanating a warm, relaxed feeling – either with a roaring fire during the cold months or taking in the foliage through the large windows in the warmer months.

Large, wood beams with a dark stain immediately provide that “lodge” feel that works so beautifully with the natural stones on the floor to ceiling hearth and became the focal point of the room. Having a large mirror affixed directly on the stone creates the feeling of grandeur. The beautiful artwork hangs proudly flanked by large-scale sconces that balance it with the fireplace.

The backless sofa with biscuit tufted seat from Hickory Chair makes a sophisticated, modern statement. Backless sofas have traditionally been deemed uncomfortable. This one, in this application, makes perfect sense. It’s an excellent choice for entertaining, providing double sided seating while being cozy and comfortable like a chaise.

Nestled in the perfect corner, this family had a game table on their wish list. Feinstein had the ideal one in mind. This game table with a hydraulic lift offers dual heights...raise it to table height and play a game or lower it to cocktail table height, sit back and relax.

Keeping with the rustic feel, New Age Interiors sourced the perfect chairs to surround the perfect table. These faux horn chairs from Bernhardt paired with a navy, velvet fabric are not only ideal, but sumptuous. A substantial piece of art on the wall finishes the space and allows this family to truly enjoy this special room. 🏠
